If everyone starts using pirated apps, the developers will run out of business (most of them already make very little money) and you won't find innovation going forward. Most paid apps are already very cheap. It would be nice if you spend your time trying to do productive things and buy the apps that will help with your requirements, instead of hunting for stolen products on the internet (which can also potentially harm your device). Downloading cracked apps is both illegal and unethical. All the effort a developer puts on an app-only pays off by the users buying it and that's all. If you don't buy it means no revenue for them.
